Umbra was founded by boyhood friends, Les Mandelbaum and Paul Rowan, with the launch of a single-window shade first designed, produced and sold in late 1979, and incorporated in Toronto in January 1980. At that time, modern design did not extend to everyday home items such as window treatments, trash cans, clocks, photo frames, kitchen, bath and furniture accessories. With fresh ideas and creative minds, Umbra brought its innovative designs to a variety of rooms in people's homes throughout the world.

Umbra remains able to pursue its mission of constantly and consistently creating exciting and affordable products by staying privately owned and operated. This has allowed us to adapt with the changing channels and environmental concerns that our customers value, while remaining true to our founding principles.

Together with many of our customers, we recognize that one of the biggest threats and challenges to our world is the changing environment. As a global consumer products company, we are committed to making continuous efforts to implement environmentally sustainable practices within all areas of our business model. Much like in the way we approach design, we will use the same curiosity, creativity and passion to tackle the multitude of current environmental threats.

For us, sustainability begins with our products. In contrast to a world where fast-fashion is common, we stand committed to creating products that last. Original, modern and functional, our products are made by processes and materials that are durable and can stand the test of time. By ensuring our designs meet our standards of quality, we ensure our customers can continue to use and enjoy our products long-term. Nothing makes us happier than visiting homes where customers have enjoyed our designs for years, if not decades. High-quality, well-made products are not destined for a landfill, which is why we will not waver in our commitment to quality.

We recognize that there is still a lot of work to be done when it comes to implementing sustainable business practices. In order to continue our efforts in protecting the environment and minimizing our impact, we are on a mission to reduce the amount of waste that is created by our packaging. While it remains important to us that our products are protected during transit, we are currently revising our packaging strategies and exploring ways to incorporate more recyclable materials in order to reduce the amount of overall waste.

Our long-term success depends on the well-being of this earth and we will not stop in our efforts to make it a better place for all of us, including our customers, to live in. We thank you for your continued support and will to join us on this mission.

I am grateful to our team and customers for supporting us in this wonderful pursuit for forty years and it is my hope that we continue to evolve our brand and great, talented team for future generations.
